We refer to our first page for the news by the Cambria, which arrived at Halifax yesterday. We have to-day learned by a telegraphic de spatch, in continuation of the items, that the Socialists of Paris are reported as being highly indignant at Kossuth. For what, is not stated but we doubt not they have as good reasons as have our pseudo-aristocrats here!

There is a prospect of a compromise between the President and a majority of the National Assembly.

The Prince de Joinville, it is said, is about to retire from the Presidential contest; and it is rumored that the President intends appealing to the Assembly to hasten the Presidential election.

CABINET OFFICERS.-From 1775 to 1850, as we gather from a table in Disturnell's Register for 1852, the Presidents, Vice Presidents, and Cabinet Officers have all been selected from the several States, as follows: Maine 1, New Hampshire 2, Massachusetts 21, Connecticut 3, Vermont 1, New York 19, New Jersey 2, Pennsylvania 15, Delaware 4, Maryland 10, Virginia 28, North Carolina 3, South Carolina 7, Georgia 6, Louisiana 3, Ohio 7, Kentucky 9, Tennessee 7, and Michigan 1.

Nineteen States have thus shared these hon ors, the following never having participated in them, viz: Rhode Island, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Texas, Arkansas, Indiana, Illinois Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin, and California-12. The Eastern States have had 28; the Middle, 50: the Southern, 42: the Western, 24. . The Presidents have been from the following States, viz: Massachusetts, 2: New York, 2: Virginia, 5; Louisiana, 1; Ohio, 1; Tennessee, 2-thirteen from six States.

Kossuth.-There appeared something like the ebullition of popular enthusiasm for the name of Kossuth, and a horde of our editors thought they could quell it. In the case of Loper their wishes had been gratified; and they cared little by what means they could get the iron collar on Kossuth's neck-all were ready to turn the screw! Had they a Concha to aid them, they might have succeeded; but the gallant Long was not to be used. They had a diplomatic Owen, (who must also, as soon as found out, take his place in the garrote!) By the way, was not the famous letter of an attacks sent from an executive office in this city for publication abroad? Something of the kind has been rumored. The attache must be brought to light.

A bill admitting Atheists to testify under oath has passed the Vermont House of Representatives. Although not an Atheist, we would believe one man of good moral character as quick as another, without regard to his views of theology.—Boston Bee.

It is fashionable to boast of liberality; but all fashions may be carried to extremes. For Christians to agree to disagree upon "non-essentials," is well; to trust to the influence of a good example and gentle sussion as the means of proselyting non-believers in revealed religion. is well enough: but to receive the word or the bath of an open blasphemer who denies the existence of a Supreme Ruler of the Universe, is both wicked and ridiculous. The only morality such a man can have is that reflected upon him or absorbed by him from the Christians among whom he lives, and is not sufficiently thorough to give warrant of his truthfulness. When a man declares he does not believe in the Deity, lieve such a declaration, we would fear the man men by death during the entire cruise. as we would an irrational beast.

General Gardiner, British Governor of Gibralter, had contributed the sum of 2,500 reals vellon for the relief of the Spanish soldiers wounded in the late battles in Cuba, as a testimony of respect to the memory of his ci-devant companion in arms, the late General Enna. A contribution of two thousand five hundred reals sounds like a large sum, and we presume many, unacquainted with Spanish currency, have concluded that Lord Gardiner had immortalized gamble? himself. In plain American currency, the contribution amounts to only $125, A real vellon is equivalent to five cents, our half dime. Not only in currency, but in everything else, does the Spaniard love to employ high-sounding terms. It is as natural to him as for water to run down hill.

Eleventh street, between Maryland avenue and the steamboat wharf, presents an improved appearance since the grade has been changed. The steamboats, the shipping, and the beautiful Potomac can be seen now from Maryland avenue, where, before this improvement, the hill excluded this view entirely. When the sidewalks are cut down, this portion of 11th street will be what it should have been years past. The self-sacrificing public spirit of the property-holders on this street is highly commendable. They have, for the public good, submitted to great inconvenience and no little expense in having this alteration made in the grade. We learn that it is in contemplation to cut down Maryland avenue, from 12th street to the bridge. This will be a good improvement, and is one loudly called for by the public convenience. Let us have good grading throughout the city, and particularly where business demands roads of easy ascent and descent, as in the case of Maryland avenue, near the Long Bridge.

Bayard Taylor has seen Lola Montes, and says she is pretty. Perhaps so; but what of it? Pretty, even beautiful women-and good, too-may be daily seen on our streets. When one of these falls, she is abborred and despised-it may be with too little charity. Shall we import the impure and rejected of Europe to idolize? How much better would the keeper and manager of such a woman be than a pimp and panderer to the infamous?

Popular Lecture on Chemical Philos-

To the Editors of the American Telegraph. GENTLEMEN: I am desirous of expressing my admiration of the lecture at the Medical College, on Wednesday evening, on Chemical Phiosophy, and the application of the dynamic agency of heat and electricity to the useful arts. The lecture was eminently interesting and instructive; was uttered with a great felicity of enunciation and emphasis, and regarded by a gratified auditory as evidence that its learned author, (James Chestney, Esq.,) possessed good taste and sound judgment, and was master of the recondite subject he undertook to illustrate. His eloquent eulogium on the discoveries of Professor Henry and Professor Morse was well received; but I am sorry to differ with him in the opinion he expressed, that the North American Telegraph line had not invaded the rights secured to Professor Morse, and I do so with diffidence, as I am told the lecturer has also the reputation of a well-read lawyer; but it must be recollected that the question depends not only upon the facts of the case, but upon the construction of the Patent laws-a branch of knowledge sui generis. The whole subject is yet sub judice, and whatever may be the opinion of philosophers, or of experts, it will be well enough for the community to suspend its judgment, until the matter shall have been heard and decided by the Supreme Court, to which tribunal the parties have concluded to resort.

Fatal Catastrophe and its Cause.

On Wednesday evening, a large four-story brick building, in Philadelphia, occupied by five different manufacturing establishments, took fire, and one man and two young women were burned to death, while several other persons were more or less injured.

The Evening Bulletin, in alluding to the subect, makes some remarks that may be profitably applied in other places than Philadelphia, and we therefore quote them. It says:

"The melancholy loss of life at the fire yeserday may be regarded as a warning to contractors, builders, and real estate owners, against the too common practice of erecting large edifices with but one staircase. Had the builders, and real estate owners. factory burned on this occasion had two staircases, one at either end of the building, the horrible death of some, and the painful maiming of others, of the operatives would have been averted; but motives of economy prerailed over forethought in the erection of the structure, and hence this appalling tragedy. We regard the matter as one suitable for legislative interference, and trust that an act will be passed this winter forbidding the construction of factories, or other large edifices, without staircases at each end." These remarks have peculiar applicability to places of public amusement, where panics, at east, are of frequent occurrence.

We took a stroll a few days since to the new gas works, now being erected on Maryland avenue, (Island,) and were happy to see the progress that enterprising company are making in the erection of their beautiful works, which will be a great improvement in that portion of the seventh ward; and the president, Silas H. Hill, esq., Mr. Sabbattan, the architect, and others who were instrumental in having this beautiful improvement located in that ward, are deserving of high commendation.

The LATE CRUISE OF THE MISSISSIPPI .- The United States steam frigate Mississippi, Captain J. C. Long, U. S. N., sailed from Norfolk on the 7th day of June, 1849, and entered the port of New York on the 10th of November, 1851, having been absent from the United States about thirty months. During the cruise, she touched at every port in the Mediterranean; sailed 29,578 miles; entered 103 ports; visited 16 countries; consumed 5,7914 tons of coal; made 2,542,260 revolutions of her paddle-wheels; spent 709 days in port, and 177 days at sea, of which 172 were under steam: fixed 38 latitudes: we do not believe him. VISITING FIREMEN.-The Mountaineer Hose Company, of Cumberland, and the Junior Fire Company, of Frederick, are making arrange-ments for their visit to this city next week to join in the firemen's procession. The latter company will number sixty men, and arrive here on Tuesday next.

The United States and Columbia Hose Companies, of Philadelphia, will leave that city for Baltimore on Monday or Tuesday next. The United States proceeds directly to Washington, where they will spend a day, and return here and join in the procession. They will be ac-companied by Beck's and Gaul's brass bands.

If the rate of fare between this city and Baltimore was anything like reasonable, a large portion of the visiters to that city would not be satisfied unless they had seen Washington also. Is there no means of bringing this

The Times has a letter from an officer of the Mississippi, from which we take the following

"Never has an American vessel been greeted in the Mediterranean with more enthusiasm The attache was disgusted and mortified. Poor sensitive fellow! I, for one, was proud that I was attached to a ship dispatched upon such a glorious mission, and receiving the cheers and blessings of thousands wherever we went. I believe, candidly, that the only two men in Marseilles who were in fear of us, were the Prefet and the American Consul—the Prefet for fear of offending his noble, high-minded Government, and the American Consul for fear of offending the Prefet."

Does not this put us on the track of the at tache? Is he not the American Consul at Mar seilles? The name of that Consul is JOHN L. Hall, of this City, through whom the attache's letter was published, should come forward and prove it by making known the real name of the siserable slanderer .- N. Y. Tribune.

We are credibly informed that Mr. William . Hodge, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, has been written to by his brother, the Consul at Marseilles, relative to Kossuth, much after the fashion of the famous letter of the attache referred to.

BOP COL. SAMUEL WATTS, of Portsmouth. Va., the Whig candidate for Lieutenant Governor, arrived in this city this morning, and put up at the National. He will depart for Wheeling this evening. He is an eloquent, generous and noble son of the Old Dominion, and will always possess the affections and respect of his fellow-citizens, whether they elect him this time or not. We learn that he last night addressed the Whigs of Alexandria-that a fine spirit prevailed, and that, as he planted himself upon the National Compromise, the name of Fillmore drew down torrents of applause. He was followed by John Janney, of Loudoun, who made a brief address.

An Annual National Fair should be held in this city. It would result in great advantage to the country. All useful arts should be comprehended in its object. Agriculture, manufactures, and commerce would all be benefited; the whole Union and the world would be benefited; and our national legislators would learn useful lessons from such a source of instruction.

The Hon. Mr. DISNEY, member of Congress from the Cincinnati district, Ohio, and one of Speakership, has arrived in this city and taken quarters at the " National." We have been requested, by a friend of Mr. Dispey, to pronounce as utterly unfounded the charge which has been made in one newspaper, if not more, ists. He not only never did favor that cause, but all his speeches and writings, for twenty years past, we are authorized to say, have been steadily and unwaveringly against the Abolitionists.

He warmly and eloquently espoused and advocated the cause of Texas annexation, and largely contributed his means to the support of that cause.

In 1843 Mr. Disney addressed, in behalf of the Irish Association of Cincinnati, to Daniel O'Connell a letter of great power and eloquence on the subject of slavery in the United States, in which he defended the adopted citizens of this country from the aspersions thrown upon them by that distinguished but arrogant and dictatorial leader.

Their next ball, we learn, will be given on the 26th instant.

A three-cent piece that has caused so much small talk in the city, has become a momentous three-cent affair, so much so that that important United States and municipal functionary, Justice John D. Clark, has published a car those Democratic members who have been in your valuable paper of the 12th instant, which contains named in the newspapers as candidates for the several three-cent errors, which I desire, Messrs. Editors to correct. In the first place, Justice John D. Clark says that THE three-cent piece was picked up at his feet, which is a small error. I picked up THAT three-cent piece about half way between Justice John D. Clark's desk and my own desk, at which I have been in the habit of transacting and my constantary desk. In the second place, that three-cent piece was, in effect, profilered to Justice John D. Clark, by my asking him if it belonged to him, and that same three-cent piece was virtually refused by Justice John D. Clark, by his replying that the three-cent piece was not his, except its being on his premises. Now, I claim to have as much right to that three-cent piece as Justice John D. Clark, as that three-cent piece was about equi-distant between the said Justice John D. Clark's magisterial desi and my constabulary desk. It is true, that Justice John D. Clark paid the rent of the office; but he had given me a right of possession in the office, by his dignifying my constabulary desk by putting it behind his judicial bar Now, as this matter is to be adjudicated by a Justice of the Peace, I trust the anxious public will suspend their judgment on the merits of this three-cent case until the same be judicially decided; and that ALL may have an opportunity of witnessing the trial of this *three-cen*affair, I shall make application to the Councils, on Mon day next, for the use of their chamber for the trial of this Important case, as the public are very anxious to hear the mony and arguments in behalf of this prosecution.
